STATIVE & DYNAMIC VERBS

1. STATIVE

There are some verbs in English that are used normally with the continuous form.

be + verb + ing

Even if, according to the context, you would use the present continuous, to be for which thing is true, stative verbs don't describe an action (something that somebody is doing or is happening) but a state or a situation.

I am always in a hurry when I go to work.

How many verbs can you think of for each? Write them down!

2. STATIVE/DYNAMIC

Some verbs can change their meaning if you use them in the other + dynamic - form. Here is a list of these examples:

- My cat is waiting for me. (stative)
- I am waiting for you. (dynamic)
- The flower is smiling. (stative)
- The dog is barking. (dynamic)

Verbs that can be either stative or dynamic are often followed by an object when a verb describes a state. Compare the examples above:

- be
- see
- feel
- think
- look
- have
- know
- love
- hate
- own
- appear
- believe
- seem
- understand
- consist
- need
- want
- mean

Dynamic and stative verbs.

Some English verbs, which we call state verbs, non-continuous or stative, are not used in continuous tenses (such as the current continuous, or the continuous future). These verbs often describe states that last for some time. Here is a list of some common ones: Estrata (or State) Verb List as they know to belong love to realize the appropriate hatred to suppose to want to consist of need to understand seems to prefer to believe depends on remembering the mind of the matter to recognize its own aspect (=verb) smell smell smell olphate to hear amazing denial please impress satisfaction promise surprise doubt to think (= has an opinion) feel (= has a mind) wants to imagine dislike concern A verb that is not stative is called a dynamic verb, and is usually an action. Some verbs can be both stative and dynamic: Being is usually a stative verb, but when used in the continuous means "comporting" or "acting" you are stupid = is part of your personality that you are being stupid = only now, not generally Think (stage) = having an opinion I think that coffee is a great thought (dynamic) = to consider, to have in my head what you are thinking? I'm thinking about my next vacation. Having (established) = own I have a car that has (dynamic) = part of an expression I am having a party / a picnic / a bath / a good time / a rest View (stage) = see with eyes / understand I see what you mean I see her now, she is coming down the road see (dynamic) = know / have a relationship with I have been seeing my boyfriend for three years I'm seeing Robert tomorrow Taste of flavor (story) = has a certain taste This soup tastes very well Coffee tastes very bitter (dynamic) = the action of tasting The chef is tasting the soups the same as other similar verbs like "small" Try this exercise on seasonal and dynamic verbs Do you need more practice?
